STEEP DROP ATTRIBUTED TO CYCLICAL DOWNTURN

Funding for AI-based startups fall 90% in Q1

PADMINI DHURUVAJ
Bengaluru, August 19

FUNDING FOR AI-BASED startups in both services and infrastructure witnessed a 90% sequential decline in the quarter ended June, according to Tracxn data.

Analysts said the steep drop in investment is attributed to the cyclical downturn in the macroeconomic environment, decreasing consumer spending, and increased scrutiny over AI's immediate return on investment. In the June quarter, funding for AI infrastructure startups dropped to $8.4 million from $74.7 million in the previous quarter. Similarly, AI as a service startups saw the funding decrease to $8.2 million from $87.4 million in the March quarter.

Comparing the figures on a year-on-year basis, the funding scenario still reflects a downward trend. AI infrastructure funding was $16.7 million in the June quarter of fiscal 2024, indicating a near 50% reduction. For AI as a service, the decline was even steeper with a drop of 76% against $35.1 million raised in the year ago period.

Mayuresh Raut, managing partner at Seafund, "The current macro-economic cycle appears to be coming towards its cyclical downward turn. There are several indicators that show consumer spending is decreasing, hiring is slowing down, and the enormous expenses that were thrown at anything AI will have to be tempered." He also said that the hype around AI had outpaced reality, leading investors to demand immediate returns on investment, especially as "there will be belt tightening across the board."

Raut further said that the market reality of strong incumbents and the emergence of numerous new players is leading to a shakeout, compounded by growing government oversight and potential new regulations. This combination of factors has made investors more cautious, significantly impacting the availability of capital for AI startups, particularly in services.

On similar lines, Somdutta Singh, an angel investor, said that "geopolitical tensions and rising interest rates have created an unstable investment climate," causing investors to adopt a more cautious approach. Singh also mentioned the saturation of the AI as a service market, where many established players dominate, making it difficult for new entrants to secure funding.

Far-reaching impact on early-stage companies

The reduction in funding has far-reaching implications for early-stage companies in the AI as a service sector. Raut said that while some companies might struggle, those that survive could find it easier to hire talent, raise money, and compete without facing cut-throat competition in the short term.

Singh echoed these sentiments, stating that the funding drought could lead to a higher failure rate among early-stage AI as a service companies. "With less funding available, early-stage companies may need to pivot towards profitability and sustainable business models rather than growth at all costs," she said.

Investors have also raised concerns about the AI as a service market, particularly around data protection, security, and the ethical implications of AI usage. "Every day we are waking up to news about data leaks and algorithms throwing up unaccounted for results," which adds to investor wariness, Raut said.

Additionally, Singh said that the high costs associated with implementing AI technologies, especially for SMEs, remain a significant barrier, further dampening investor enthusiasm.

Potential for broader AI funding landscape

While the funding climate for AI as a service has cooled, the broader AI market has not seen such a dramatic decline. The early stages of generative AI's growth trajectory suggest that there is still significant potential for expansion and mainstream adoption, analysts said.

Singh said that overall investment in AI technologies remains strong, driven by advancements in areas such as GenAI and machine learning. These sectors continue to attract diverse funding sources and higher valuations.

Shiprocket looks to plug Valmo into its platform

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, August 19

E-COMMERCE ENABLEMENT AGGREGATOR Shiprocket, which is grappling with widening losses, is in talks to integrate Meesho's in-house logistics arm Valmo onto its platform.

This will help the core shipping business which accounts for 70-80% of revenues, but faces margin pressures and increased competition. Saahil Goel, CEO and co-founder of Shiprocket confirms the company is trying to see if Valmo can be plugged into its platform as a supply partner. "Our approach is to bring any and every kind of model onto our platform," he said.

Meesho is currently the largest customer in the third-party logistics space, with about 50% market share. The use of Valmo has reduced Meesho's logistics costs by approximately 5%. It is being used to handle 20-22% of Meesho's orders, with expectations to double this capacity in the next 12-18 months.

While Goel claims the core

SAAHIL GOEL, CEO AND CO-FOUNDER, SHIPROCKET

OUR APPROACH IS TO BRING ANY AND EVERY KIND OF MODEL ONTO OUR PLATFORM

shipping business has been profitable since 2019, Shiprocket's diversification efforts have come at a cost. Net losses widened from ₹63.6 crore in FY22 to ₹333.8 crore in FY23, despite revenues surging from ₹634.5 crore to ₹1,126.7 crore in the same period. Other expenses more than doubled from ₹503.6 crore to ₹1,104.1 crore. The operating margin deteriorated from -10% to -29.6%, following the cost of diversification.

The results can be partly attributed to Shiprocket's recent acquisitions. In FY22, the company acquired Pickrr and Glaucus Supply Chain Solutions, among others. Pickrr saw its revenue grow from ₹205.8 crore in FY22 to ₹306.5 crore in FY23.

However, its net loss also increased from ₹52.3 crore to ₹105.1 crore during the same period. Glaucus Logistics, another FY22 acquisition, was bought in better financial health, albeit on a smaller scale.

On the company's core value proposition, Goel notes that although price differences of 30-40% exist between courier providers on their platform, volumes are distributed equally.

Air India launches 'BYOD' streaming

ROHIT VAID
New Delhi, August 19

IN A BID to offer a premium experience to flyers, Air India has rolled out the 'Bring Your Own Device' content streaming service on select flights, sources told FE.

Passengers on Air India's aircraft will be able to view pre-loaded content on their own devices. Sources said the service will negate the impact of non-working in-flight entertainment systems, which has been a major cause of customer complaints. When contacted, the airline did not respond.

The service enables passengers to connect their personally owned devices, such as smartphones, to an onboard computer for the streaming of pre-loaded entertainment content.

According to sources, the airline has received regulatory approval to roll out the service. In India, IndiGo and Vistara provide such services. Earlier, Jet Airways had a similar product.

PRATIK PATIJA

GOKALDAS EXPORTS HAS decided to put its plan to build a garments factory in Bangladesh on hold as the nation continues to face political turmoil that has killed hundreds of people during weeks-long violence.

The Indian company, which exports to more than 50 countries including the US, Canada and some European nations, will only engage in contract manufacturing in Bangladesh for now, according to Sivaramakrishnan Ganapathi, vice chairman and managing director of the Bengaluru-based company.

"We have been watching the economy from a distance and we were not very sure of making that investment," Ganapathi said in an interview on Bloomberg Television Monday. "We will wait and watch and see how it unfolds. We see a lot more opportunities for us out of India now."

Bangladesh's Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina was forced to step down and flee to neighboring India this month following a series of student-led clashes with pro-government supporters. What started as peaceful demonstrations seeking to abolish a government jobs quota turned into deadly unrest.

More than 600 people have been killed during the weeks-long protests, the UN Human Rights Office said in a preliminary report. —BLOOMBERG

Wadias book impairment of ₹2,000 cr in Go First

SWARAJ BAGGONKAR
Mumbai, August 19

THE WADIA GROUP, erstwhile promoters of defunct Go Airlines (owner of Go First), booked an impairment charge of nearly ₹2,000 crore in FY23 and FY24. About 95% of the total ₹1,969 crore impairment charge came in FY23. GoAir was admitted for insolvency in May 2023.

As per disclosures made in its latest annual report, Bombay Burmah Trading Corporation (BBTC), a Wadia group company which held 48.14% in the airline, FY24 saw an impairment charge of ₹103 crore. The year also saw grounding of the entire fleet of Go First in May, 2023.

The fleet has remained grounded ever since and attempts by creditors to sell the company after inviting bidders have failed.

An overseas subsidiary of BBTC, Baymanco Investments, made an investment of ₹290 crore in Go Air in April 2023 through compulsorily convertible preference shares (CCPS). This was one of the last major investments made in the beleaguered airline.

"Considering that the entire group exposure outstanding as at FY24 has been fully provided for, based on the audited financial statements of the subsidiaries having exposure in Go Airlines, we expect no further outstanding impact on this matter as at end of FY24," an audit report of the company stated.

In June, Go First's three lenders - Central Bank of India, Bank of Baroda and IDBI Bank - invited bids to sell land parcels aggregating 94.71 acre in Thane, the reserve price of which was ₹1,965 crore. Go Airlines owed ₹3,918 crore to these creditors.

FY23 saw Go First record its biggest-ever loss at ₹1,808 crore on a revenue of ₹4,184 crore which was the lowest since 2018.
